This is the last issue of... COIN AND MEDAL NEWS

We regret very much, to have to inform our readers, that due to a large number of complex factors, Coin and Medal News will cease publication, with this issue.

For the past two years we have had to consider taking this step, but have somehow managed to produce the magazine, even under the most trying conditions.

The point has now been reached, where it has become obvious that the September 1975 Coin and Medal News, will have to be the final issue. This is the 70th magazine in the ten year series. (VOL. 11 No. 1)

We will however, from time to time, still issue Price Lists. Readers whose subscriptions have not yet expired will continue receiving our price lists, as and when they are issued. However, should a reader not wish to receive the price lists and require us to make a refund of the unused portion of his subscription he should write to us and make a specific request to this effect.

We will then send him a postal order for the balance of his subscription. Please note, that we will only be able to consider such requests up to the end of October 1975.

We know from the many letters we received recently regarding our tenth Anniversary, that many readers will miss getting Coin and Medal News. Perhaps circumstances will, in the not too distant future, permit the continuation or re-issue in a new form, of some journal for South Africa's numismatic fraternity. We certainly hope so.

Finally, our sincere thanks to you all for your loyal and valued support over the years. We trust that whenever possible, you will continue visiting us in the shop at 151 Jeppe Street.

Au Revoir but not Good bye!

Hierdie uitgawe is die laaste van MUNT- EN MEDALJENUUS

Dit spyt ons innig om hiermee aan ons lesers bekend te maak dat, tewyde aan 'n hele aantal gekompliseerde faktore, die publikasie van Munt- en Medaljenuus met hierdie uitgawe gestaak word.

Die afgelope twee jaar reeds word hierdie stap oorweeg maar kon ons onder moeilike omstandighede, steeds voortgaan.

'n Stadium is egter nou bereik waar vas besluit is dat die September 1975 uitgawe die laaste sal wees. Dit sal die 70ste tydskrif oor 'n periode van 10 jaar wees. (VOL. 11 Nr. 1)

Ons sal egter periodiek pryslyste publiseer en lesers wie se intekengeld vooruitbetaal is, sal hierdie lyste ontvang wanneer dit uitgereik word. Indien 'n leser verkies om nie die lyste te ontvang nie en liever 'n terugbetaling van intekengeld vir die onverstreke tydperk verlang, moet so 'n versoek asseblief skriftelik aan ons gerig word, waarop die onverbruikte gedeelte van die intekengeld per posorder terugbetaal sal word.

Geliewe daarop te let dat versoeke van hierdie aard slegs tot die einde van Oktober 1975 oorweeg kan word.

Uit die talle briewe van lesers ontvang tydens ons onlangse, tiende verjaardag blyk dit duidelik dat lesers Munt- en Medaljenuus sal mis. Ons hoop van harte dat omstandighede die voortsetting, of uitgifte van 'n nuwe blad vir die Numismatiese broederskap in die nabye toekoms moontlik sal maak.

Ten slotte, 'n hartelike woord van dank teenoor almal vir die lojale en gewaardeerde ondersteuning in die verlede. Ons vertrou dat u steeds, wanneer omstandighede dit toelaat, besoek sal aflê by ons winkel te Jeppestraat 151.

Non adieu dis net totsiens!

'KRUGERMUNTE' was net SENTE

Die 3000 "Goue Krugermunte" wat mnr. Magiel Venter, 51, ses maande gelede vir R4 000 gekoop het, het twee swartmans, vandeeweek R600 boete in die Kroonstadse landdroshof gekos. Hulle is weens bedrog gevonniss omdat hulle 2c-stukke ter waarde van R2 met goud oorgeblaas en aan die Venters verkwansel het.

Voor landdros P.C. van der Merwe is getuig dat Enoch Manies, 34, en Pieter Mphores, 48, 'n koffer by Magiel, 'n paaie-superintendent, en sy vrou, Corrie, aangebring het. Hulle het gesê hulle het 3000 Krugermunte by Bothaville uitgegrawe en die Venters moet hulle help om dit te verkoop. 'n Paar egte munte is as voorbeeld aan hulle getoon.

Mnr. Venter het getuig dat hy twee van die munte by twee bankbestuurders laat waardeer het. Die waarde was R2. Hy het gedink hy sou die res vir R4 000 kon verkoop.

In die donker het die twee swartmans aanvanklik met die bliktrommel na hul huis gekom. Toe hy van die munte wou ondersoek, het hulle deksel toegeslaan en weggehardloop. Vyf keer het hulle dit gedoen.

Uiteindelik het hy die R4 000 gaan haal, het mnr. Venter getuig. Manies het dit gegryp en weggehardloop. Toe hulle die trommel wou oopsluit het die sleutel nie gepas nie.

LONDON

Call to Arms

Global war on numismatic counterfeit has been declared with the formation in London of a permanent international bureau dedicated to the "battle of the bogus."

According to the International Association of Professional Numismatists — which met in late May in Edinburgh, Scotland, the bureau will be operational by the end of this year.

"For over 12 years, the IAPA Anti-Forgery Committee has coordinated the campaign by the numismatic trade against counterfeiters," said Peter Seaby of London's B.A. Seaby Limited.

"The new bureau is being established in order to improve the effectiveness of the fight against counterfeits. It will collect and disseminate information on counterfeits to dealers, collectors, numismatic societies and museums. It will in close co-operation with law enforcement authorities and will seek to encourage legislation in various countries to aid the suppression of counterfeits of both modern and antique coins," Seaby said.

Seaby, elected president of the international dealer group during the Edinburgh meeting, said the counterfeit bureau will work closely with the American Numismatic Association's Certification Service.

"A fund guaranteeing the initial support of the project has been set up, but additional financial and technical support will be sought."

1976 COIN YEARBOOK OF INTEREST TO COLLECTORS OF BRITISH AND COMMONWEALTH SERIES

By Jerry Remick

The 1976 COIN YEAR BOOK will be of great use to all collectors of British and British of commonwealth coins. Published by the editors of Great Britain's well known monthly coin magazine entitled COIN MONTHLY, the 388 page 1976 COIN YEAR BOOK features a complete listing of all British coins by date with mintage figures and valuations for four grades from 1660 to the present. Also included are a complete listing of all coins of Jersey, Guernsey, Isle of Man, Lundy and Ireland (1928-1974) by date with mintages and prices for 4 grades. Priced complete listings with mintage figures are included for 20th Century Games Coins, British Commonwealth Proof Sets, British Commonwealth Crowns and also British Commonwealth Gold coins. I wrote and priced the last 4 sections myself. These various catalogue sections are probably the most up to date valuations for these series. Each is done by a specialist. Material is collected in June and ready for distribution on August 21st so there is little time lag.

The topical listings of 20th Century Games Coins, British Commonwealth and Empire Crowns; British Commonwealth and Empire Gold Coins; and of British Commonwealth Proof sets are not to be found in any other publication and are a useful guide for those interested in having the complete listing plus up to date pricing for these series. The section on gold coins and also on proof sets are new and did not appear in previous issues of this YEAR BOOK.

Other features of interest in the 1976 COIN YEAR BOOK are a complete listing with addresses of British Coin Clubs, British Coin Dealers, Dealers in various countries and Museums in Great Britain having exhibits of coins. Listings with addresses of International Numismatic Societies, International Banknote Societies and Numismatic Trade Associations are also included.

Shorter sections include Coin varieties, dictionary of coin designers, denominations of the world, world mint-marks, counterstamps, legends and mottoes, sovereigns of Europe, banknotes, medallions, tokens, medals, Roman coins and United Kingdom coin specifications.

Many dealers base their pricing for British coins on YEAR BOOK which is so popular that it is sold out soon after it is issued.

The 388 page booklet is bound with a stiff paper cover and will be released on August 21, 1975. Price to those living outside of Great Britain is only £2.00 (about $4.80 US) postpaid. Inquiries may be sent to the Publishers - Coin 1976 Year Book, Sovereign House, High Street, Brentwood, Essex, England.

COINS AND MEDALS, APRIL 1975

'No, no, Bert! It's the gold coins we're after!'

Records Smashed

Several world records were shattered during the April 29-30 Zurich auction of antique coins conducted by Bank Leu AG. An Ionian electrostater weighing 14.05 grams, EF, was pounded down at the extremely high price of $52,650.

Greek coins of Sicily proved a spectacular section at the sale. A Camarina didrachm, 8.32 grams, EF, soared to a new high of $66,300 while a Naxos tetradrachm, 17.30 grams, EF, compared $54,600. A Sicily tetradrachm of Acragas (modern Agrigento), 17.25 grams, VF, attained a winning bid of $46,800.

A tetradrachm of Alexander 1 Bala, 152/144 BC, 16.86 grams, EF, was hammered down to $48,750. Seeking a bid of $54,600 was a gold medal of 1-1/4 solidi of Constantius II, 337-361 AD, 5.33 grams, EF. A Byzantine solidus of Pulchera, 4.45 grams, EF, realised $3,900.

Information on other records set during the sale may be obtained from Bank Leu AG, Bahnhofstrasse 32, Postfach 553, CH-8022 Zurich, Switzerland.

Threshold of Space

In November, the favorite game in town for speculators and hobby spectators was "Follow the Yellow Brick Road," as market prices of gold bullion daily gyrated between new highs and those recorded the day before.

Object of the game was to guess when the per-ounce tag would hit $200, a plateau considered by many experts to be the launch pad to still more giddy heights. It was a game that any number could — and did — play, but the stakes hung on something more critical than a roll of the dice. Several international factors also were in the game, not the least of which were the U.S. congressional elections and removal of bans on U.S. gold ownership.

Although world market prices did not quite clear the lofty $200 hurdle by late November, they came — as politicians are fond of saying — to the very brink. The Nov. 18 afternoon quote in London was $190.50. On the more mercurial Paris bourse, it closed at $196.46 the same day. Later, on the 20th, the London price retreated to $180.50 as predictable profit-taking set in the the players regrouped. By Nov. 26 the price had recovered to $186.

Gold's performance in November was in sharp contrast to the sluggish track record of a few weeks earlier. In the first half of October, the price barely moved off $155 an ounce and was fixed at that level on the London market during the Oct. 15-17 trading period. However, it moved from $157 on Oct. 21 to $168.25 in just eight days, before closing the month on a small downtrend.

The climb actually began in earnest on Nov. 6, when gold on the London market surged to $178 an ounce, just $1.50 short of the high water mark of $179.50 set last April 3. That performance prompted the predictions that the push to the magic $200 level had begun. Just one week later — on Nov. 14 — the old record fell, as the price in London hurtled to $189.25 per ounce.

If brokers were generous with predictions, they were at a loss to explain the demand that triggered the spiral. Several credited the overwhelming Democratic victory in the U.S. elections, citing the Democrats' reputation for big spending. "That adds up to more inflation in anybody's book," said one, opining that more and more citizens would invest in precious metals as a buffer against rising living costs.

That opinion was shared by some other brokers, one of whom noted that "gold prices in 1975 will be largely determined by the private sector's willingness to buy gold."

Spokesmen also predicted that world demand would get a shot in the arm from the Dec. 31 lifting of restrictions on American gold ownership, noting, however, that the long term effect was still tied to the inflation factor. "Once the initial excitement to hold gold passes, one can assume that hoards would increase only if inflation would make hoarding rational. As long as there is continued inflation, gold hoards and gold prices will rise, unless the sale of monetary gold would more than satisfy demand," said one commodity house official.

But even while investors, speculators and brokers gleefully anticipated ever higher gold prices, other observers injected a cautionary note, insisting it was still too early to set sights on some lofty peak. They reminded the gold bugs of the dramatic dip of last July, when gold temporarily skidded to $129 an ounce, as an example of how feast or famine could be the lot of those who pin all their hopes on gold.

However, in Zurich, the disciples of Midas were saying that gold was within "touching distance" of $200, and could very well reach that level by the end of the year or shortly thereafter. The only potential flies in the ointment, experts agreed, were a possible postponement of the Dec. 31 legalization of private gold in the U.S. and/or open market sales of gold by the U.S. Treasury.

SECURITY:

This has been arranged with a firm, SAFEGUARDS who will have 6 (six) uniformed European guards on duty during daylight hours and 4 (four) guards at night, once the exhibition hall closes. - No. 8 — R167.00 : 1895 Half Pond. Brilliant almost UNC/Brilliant UNC Tiny rim knocks on reverse rim and slight bag marks in fields.
- No. 11 — R7100.00 : 1874 Burgers Pond, Fine Beard Variety. Almost uncirculated. Hairline scratches in fields. Designs are frosted. This is an exceptionally beautiful coin, with prooflike fields.
- No. 12 — R12000.00 : 1874 Burgers Pond, Coarse Beard Variety. Almost Uncirculated. Most Numismatics would grade this as Uncirculated with minute hairline scratches and tiny nicks in the fields. Designs are slightly frosted and fields are prooflike. Excessively rare in this condition.
- No. 14 — R800.00 : 1892 Pond. Single Shalft. VF+/EF Minute rim nicks and 6 mm scratch above Eagle's head. Rare in this condition.
- No. 15 — R186.00 : 1893 Pond. VF+/AU Tiny rim nicks on obverse, and relatively heavy rim knock and large rim nick on reverse, at four o'clock and 10 o'clock respectively. Rare even in this condition.
- No. 16 — R310.00 : 1894 Pond Brilliant Uncirculated, with some bag marks and some minute gouge marks and some rim nicks.
- No. 18 — R302.00 : 1895 Pond. EF/UNC. Some nicks and bag marks. Brilliant and rare in this condition.
- No. 20 — R405 : 1987 Pond. Almost Uncirculated, with bag marks. Two small rim knocks on the obverse side. Excessively rare in this condition.
- No. 22 — R190.00 : 1898 Pond. Almost Uncirculated/Uncirculated. Some bag marks and a small rim nick, otherwise a brilliant coin.
- No. 25 — R8100.00 : 1899 Pond. (1898 Pond over stamped "99"). EF/almost Uncirculated. This is just a gem of a coin. Scarce in itself, (only 130 produced), and particularly rare in this condition.
- No. 26 — R290.00 : 1900 Pond. Brilliant Virtually Uncirculated. A similar coin received bids of up to R400.00 and was sold R330.00 on Phoenix postal auction No. 8.
- No. 30 — R3325.00 : 1902 Veld Pond Brilliant Uncirculated. This must be one of the very first strikings. Exceptionally clear detail showing every minute irregularity of the original pair of dies. Coin also has a crack at 5 o'clock on obverse side. The Veld Pond is the only known coin that becomes more valuable because of a crack, because of the history relating to this.
- No. 31 — R2700.00. 1898 "Sammy Marks" gold 3d. Almost uncirculated and quite brilliant. One of the best examples of this scarce novelty also expected to fetch a price considerably higher than Reserve.
- No. 129 — R2520 : 1902 Veld Pond. Uncirculated.
- No. 130 — R2250 : 1902 Veld Pond. About uncirculated.

Coin Market Perspective

By David L. Ganz

The year 1975 will be known as the year of silver. The bull is emerging from the closet and is about to close in on the golden bear. Despite private gold ownership legalization and continued interest in that metal through domestic sales, silver — at least in percentage terms — can be expected to make sharper advances in price than its precious metal counterpart.

Ironically, silver coins prove to be the keystone to the expected price advance of the bullion. For collectors, both the price advance and the cause are expected to heighten interest in formerly common-date silver dimes, quarters and half dollars.

Key reason for silver's price advance in 1975 will be the expected depletion of silver coin reserves currently used to satisfy bullion demand. Throughout most of 1974, silver coins were sold on the futures contract market and melted as a means of satisfying maturing bullion contracts.

By the end of the third quarter of 1974, more than 13-million troy ounces of silver had been recovered from melted silver coins. This contrasts with 3.2-million ounces recovered in 1973, and 213,774 the previous year.

Acknowledgement must be made to the factor that this silver has played on the existing bullion market. A ready source of supply, it took sufficient pressure from the main bullion market to actually lower the price. In that sense, the circle was a vicious one: the high prices caused the coins to be melted, which flooded the market with metal, lowering the price.

Still, because silver does have vast industrial use — notably in the photography industry — the price never went precipitously low. Rather, added silver coin bullion (achieved by melting the coins) simply gave the market sufficient leverage to take off price pressures.

Silver coin availability is, of course, fixed by the total number of coins produced by the mint prior to 1965, less current meltings, less meltings from the mint programs conducted between 1968 and 1970, minus natural attrition over the years.

The mint melting program — officially designated as a silver recovery program — brought in 212-million ounces through the destruction of 563 million quarters and 1.5-billion dimes. In 1974, $19.6-million (at face value) in silver coins was recovered during the first three quarters.

The effect of this source drying up (and evidence suggests that there is little left to be melted) will be to create a price advance on the bullion market. This will raise the intrinsic worth of silver coins which, like gold, have a specific number of troy ounces for each denomination.

Resulting from this would be a rise in the market selling price of common-date silver coins, whose worth is derived largely from bullion content. The rise might not seem a dramatic one; perhaps the cost of common date silver Roosevelt dime would rise from 65 cents to 85 cents. Not much as an investment item, right? Wrong — the charge represents more than a 30 percent price return.

In perspective, silver coins have played an important role in the silver bullion market through their melting and sale. Tens of thousands of ounces of silver have been recovered this way, but this is about to end as the supply of available coins is depleted. This will result in higher prices on the silver bullion market, and ultimately, on the coin market for common-date bullion coins.
